Being a parent is hard work.
Sometimes, we just don't have all the answers.

Take school for example; many parents simply don't know where they fit in the education process for their own children.

We all want our children to succeed. Parent Today can help.

Parent Today is your online resource – available through our school district website – that helps you help your child get the most out of his or her school days.

Research* shows that engaged parents have a positive effect on their children's school success – meaning better attendance, better attitude toward school and homework, better grades and higher expectations for the future.

You are your child's first and most influential teacher. You know your child best and have the privilege to share some of the most important lessons he or she will ever learn. Parent Today is here to help.

Parent Today reaches out to your inbox twice a month with a free newsletter talking about what matters most for families and how simple steps at home can lead to huge strides in the classroom.

Parenttoday.org is an information-rich website providing even more help and supports to keep you informed – strengthening the crucial bridge between home and school.

We hope you will join with us in meeting the challenge of educating our children for 21st century success.

Parent Today coaches and encourages parents through four chapters of their children's education – early childhood, elementary, middle years and high school – addressing important, age-appropriate topics with accessible, easy-to-implement tools and strategies, empowering parents to come alongside their children at any age with advice, support and encouragement.
